Sing for Hope harnesses the power of the arts to create a better world.
DEAR FRIENDS,

We are so pleased to share our Sing for Hope FY2022 Annual Report, which provides a snapshot of all that you make possible through your support of our work.

As you will see in the following pages, whether we are serving communities during the hardest days of the pandemic or working together to recover and rebuild, your generosity makes it possible for us to share hope where it’s needed most. Over the past year, Sing for Hope’s programs have continued to bring healing and connection to millions of people in healthcare facilities, vaccination centers, schools, refugee camps, transit hubs, and community spaces worldwide.

Thanks to your support, Sing for Hope has been able to provide:

- Artist employment in times of crisis: Responding to unprecedented levels of unemployment and underemployment in our sector, Sing for Hope emerged as one of the most robust employers of freelance musicians in the U.S. during the pandemic, and continues to be during the post-pandemic recovery period.

- Arts for public health & wellbeing: Our dynamic programming inspires and uplifts thousands of people each day at Moynihan Train Hall, Port Authority Bus Terminal, Javits Vaccination Site, Department for the Aging, and other areas vital to ongoing renewal efforts.

- Arts education & advocacy: Our Sing for Hope Lab, Youth Chorus, and Sustainable Development Goals Arts Curriculum fill the void in arts education for at-risk youth with daily arts classes, creative service learning, and special performances that elevate local and global youth in partnership with The United Nations.

- Arts access: From the Bronx to Beirut, our beloved multi-modal Sing for Hope Pianos are creative hotspots that bring communities to life, revitalizing and connecting people across differences through their colorful harmonies.

- Arts empathy & migration integration: Expanded in March 2022 in response to the war in Ukraine, our Creative Hope for Refugees program currently serves five European cities (Nuremberg, Prague, Bucharest, Chișinău, and Turin) with therapeutic arts workshops, collaborative performances, and co-created Sing for Hope Pianos that welcome, engage, and comfort newly arrived Ukrainian refugee youth and families.

Sing for Hope’s programs lie at the nexus of creative arts and humanitarian outreach, and act as delivery systems for hope, especially in times of crisis. Our work has never been more far-reaching, more impactful, or more worthy of your energies and philanthropy. This year, more than ever, your support is life-changing for Sing for Hope and the communities we serve.

On behalf of the individuals and communities we serve, thank you for your support.

With gratitude and determined hope,

Monica Yunus and Camille Zamora
Co-Founders and Co-Executive Directors
Sing for Hope harnesses the power of the arts to create a better world. Our creative programs bring hope, healing, and connection to millions of people in hospitals, care facilities, schools, refugee camps, transit hubs, and community spaces worldwide. A non-profit organization founded in New York City in response to the events of 9/11, Sing for Hope partners with hundreds of community-based organizations, mobilizes thousands of artists in creative service, and produces artist-created Sing for Hope Pianos across the U.S. and around the world.

Our programs include:

SING FOR HOPE PUBLIC HEALTH & WELLBEING — Research-based creative interventions, performances, and curated cultural experiences that promote wellness and connection in healthcare centers, vaccination sites, long-term care facilities, treatment centers, and public spaces. Our programs encompass both in-person and virtual arts experiences, and are designed to uplift and transform individuals, organizations, and communities.

SING FOR HOPE EDUCATION — Dynamic arts classes, workshops, and standards-based curricula that inspire civic action and uplift youth, educators, and local communities. Our programs—which include HandaHarmony, Sing for Hope Youth Chorus, Sing for Hope Lab, Creative Hope for Refugees, our international pilot programs, Careers in the Arts, and Artivism—serve youth in grades K-12, with partners including NYC Department of Education, Los Angeles Unified School District, and The United Nations.

SING FOR HOPE PIANOS — From the Bronx to Beirut, a global arts initiative that creates artist-designed pianos; places them in public spaces for anyone and everyone to enjoy; then transports and activates them year-round in permanent homes in schools, hospitals, transit hubs, refugee camps, and community-based organizations. Sing for Hope has provided more pianos for under-resourced public schools than any other organization in the world.

SING FOR HOPE CULTURAL DIPLOMACY — Creative advocacy, leadership, and program design that drive the integration of the arts in policy, peace-building, and global convenings on social change. Sing for Hope is the official Cultural Partner of the World Summit of Nobel Peace Laureates.

Sing for Hope champions art for all because we believe the arts have an unmatched capacity to uplift, unite, and heal.

In FY2022, Sing for Hope’s programs continued to deliver a double impact by bringing the transformative power of the arts to communities in need while providing artist employment at a time when the majority of artists are still experiencing under-employment due to COVID-19-related program reductions and the slowness of the arts industry, relative to other industries, to return to pre-pandemic levels (Source: COVID-19 Pandemic’s Impact on the Arts, Americans for the Arts). Sing for Hope is honored to be a key driver in global efforts to leverage the arts to rebuild communities post-pandemic.

OUR MODEL

SITE IDENTIFICATION
We identify settings where the arts can help facilitate healing, hope, and social cohesion.

COMMUNITY TRANSFORMATION
Community develops, relationships strengthen, leaders emerge, healing happens, voices are heard.

NEED/ASSET ASSESSMENT
We work closely with our community partners to determine the unique needs, untapped potential, and assets of the population.

TEAM CREATION
We build a team of Artists and Community Partners whose creativity and communication styles best serve people and place.

PROGRAM DESIGN
We craft dynamic arts programming that engages and amplifies the voices and stories of all involved.

OUR VALUES

1. The creative arts are a powerful conduit for hope. We believe that the creative arts have unique power to heal, unite, educate, and transform.

2. Creativity is a fundamental human right. We believe that access to the arts is a right, not a privilege.

3. Access to creative resources is not equitable today, but grassroots, artist-led action helps to level the field. We believe that through Sing for Hope’s network of support, artists can act as powerful resource re-allocators for creativity, sharing the arts and their byproduct—hope—where they are needed most.

4. Sharing creativity in communities enriches artists in tandem with those they serve. Sing for Hope Artist Partners serve in every Sing for Hope program as our most vital asset, leveraging their creative service to transform individuals and communities in need. Through their sharing of time and talent, Sing for Hope Artist Partners are enriched alongside the communities they serve, as creativity is an endlessly renewable resource that increases with use.

5. Sing for Hope programs are designed for and with our community institutional partners based on the needs of the individuals and communities served. Our community institutional partners are co-investors in, and beneficiaries of, our programming.

6. We measure our transformation of individuals and communities through careful tracking of our impact and outcomes, demonstrating the power of the arts to generate joy, determination, renewed optimism, and connection/unity in each community we serve.

7. Sing for Hope values integrity, excellence, passion, and positivity as key attributes of our organization and our work. We are program-driven, impact/results-oriented, and artist- and community-sensitive.

EMPLOYING ARTISTS IN AN UNPRECEDENTED TIME

“The COVID-19 pandemic has had a devastating impact on America’s arts sector. Even as arts organizations return to in-person programming and employment conditions improve for artists and creative workers, the arts are recovering slower than other industries.”

— COVID-19 Pandemic’s Impact on The Arts: Research Update, Americans for the Arts, 2022

In response to the reported 90% unemployment/underemployment rate in our creative arts sector during the pandemic (COVID-19 Pandemic’s Impact on The Arts, Americans for the Arts, 2022), Sing for Hope pivoted our model from arts volunteerism to a 100% fee-paying model for the artists who power our programs.

In FY21–FY22, Sing for Hope emerged as one of the most robust, broad-scale employers of professional freelance artists in the United States. Over this two-year period, SFH has provided meaningful arts work for 527 professional freelance artists (with an average of 5 repeat hires each) who shared their artistry in our virtual and in-person programs.

“I cannot overstate the emotional impact these performances have had, first during the height of the pandemic, and now with the raging war between the country of my birth (Russia) and the country of my ancestors (Ukraine)... It has helped us all cope and bond emotionally. For these performance hours, we hold on to each other and nothing more needs to be said.”

— SFH Artist Partner Ljova, Composer/Arranger/Fadolist/Violist

“With Sing for Hope, I’ve been able to make music with my incredible colleagues once again, and to earn income – plus, we get to feel these seismic waves of gratitude and emotion from our listeners... It has provided real and tangible feelings of hope.”

— SFH Artist Partner Philip Payton, Award-Winning Violinist

“Sharing my art in Sing for Hope’s programs is a touchstone in my artistic life. It reconnects me with the way the arts can elevate and connect us, heart-to-heart, no matter our differences. Sing for Hope reminds me of what power we have as artists to heal and to help.”

SING FOR HOPE
PUBLIC HEALTH & WELLBEING

Research-based creative performances, workshops, and curated cultural experiences that promote wellness and connection in public spaces, healthcare centers, vaccination sites, long-term care facilities, and treatment centers.

Sing for Hope’s Public Health and Wellbeing programs encompass both in-person and virtual arts experiences, and are designed to affect systems change and benefit individuals, organizations, and communities.

HEALING ARTS

“Our patients and staff have been feeling particularly terrible with the new variant. We feel like we are reliving the trauma all over again. Thank you for this gift – one of our employees said ‘I’ve worked here for 9 years and this was the best day I had at work!’”

— Staff Member, Maimonides Medical Center

Sing for Hope continues to lead the return to safe in-person arts programming in the tri-state area, prioritizing areas hardest hit by the COVID-19 pandemic. Supported by grants from New York State Council on the Arts and the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs as well as individual donations, the program highlights leading artists in diverse genres presented with rigorous safety protocols for patients and caregivers in healthcare centers and elder care facilities.

In FY22, Sing for Hope was awarded grants from The Amazin’ Mets Foundation to serve multiple areas within Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn, and from The Isaac H. Tuttle Fund to expand services to older adults social day programs across Manhattan.

The grants funded employment for 25 unique Sing for Hope Artist Partners. Current partner facilities include Henry Street Settlement Older Adult Program, Riverstone Senior Life Services, Lenox Hill One Neighborhood House, The Older Adult Center @ St. Peter’s Church, and The Rodney Kirk Center, with more sites to be added in the next fiscal year. With richly diverse programming curated by Sing for Hope’s Creative Aging Specialist / Director of Community Arts Victoria Paterson, the program features highly accomplished artists in both in-person and virtual events reflective of each site’s specific interests, needs, and health challenges.

Sing for Hope Artist Partners Bobby Harden and Ron Thompson share music, dance, and smiles with residents and caregivers at St. Patrick’s Home Rehabilitation and Health Care Center in the Bronx.
A virtual extension of Sing for Hope’s mission of “art for all,” Open Arts offers live interactive virtual arts programming for isolated seniors and healthcare populations across the United States. With programming ranging from movement classes to chamber music concerts to painting workshops, Open Arts employs artists from the world’s leading stages and is free of charge for all participants.

In FY22, Sing for Hope’s Open Arts platform produced 298 unique live interactive events ranging from full-scale concert performances to visual art classes to dance workshops for the mobility impaired. With 27 onboarded healthcare facility partners, Open Arts reached 23,446 individuals in senior care communities, service organizations, and public agencies across nine states and two countries (NY, NJ, VT, OH, FL, WI, GA, TX, and CA, and Israel).

In New York City alone, Open Arts is enjoyed by participants including the New York City Housing Authority’s Grandparent Resource Centers (part of the Mayor’s Office of Criminal Justice MAP Plan for Neighborhood Safety, in partnership with the New York City Department for the Aging), as well as diverse adult day care facilities and medical facilities across the five boroughs. All of our NYC-area sites benefit from Sing for Hope’s hybrid model, which offers in-person programming in tandem with virtual programs.

- 1,400+ live interactive Open Arts events since the program’s launch in January 2021
- 25,000+ participants reached annually
- 145 artists employed across multiple events (55% BIPOC)

QUALITY OF COMMUTE

“It was wonderful to see hear the music in Moynihan… The ensemble really lifted our spirits and filled the space in such a beautiful way. There was even a moment when a couple waltzed, and another where a dancer emerged from the crowd for a beautiful, spontaneous modern duet. I’d love to see more music like this in New York City; it makes art accessible and enjoyable for everyone.”

— Jules Peiperl, 9/1/2022

Leveraging the power of the arts to drive social cohesion, public health, and overall wellbeing, in FY22 Sing for Hope expanded our Quality of Commute transit hub partnership programs that reach thousands of commuters a day at our partner sites including Port Authority Bus Terminal, Oculus World Trade Center, Newark Liberty International Airport, and Moynihan Train Hall. Over the course of FY22, the program provided 282 artist services (that is, unique employment opportunities) for the 60+ Sing for Hope Artist Partners powering the program.

As the official musical partner of Moynihan Train Hall (the busiest transit hub in the Western Hemisphere), Sing for Hope produces 100+ free live concerts annually. By providing top-tier live musical experiences in transit hubs across New York City and beyond, Sing for Hope is building upon our pandemic-era role as the country’s leading employer of freelance musicians during the pandemic, reframing the transit hub experience for commuters and staff, and shifting the landscape for artist employment in urban centers through our innovative public-private funding model.

“I just came across a lovely Sing for Hope quartet playing at the train station and was reminded by them that Bach can still turn a bad day into a good one. Thank you for reminding me of the magic of this city.”

— Beatrice Affron, commuter at Moynihan Train Hall

“I’ve been commuting for 20 years and had my first ‘transcendent’ moment today while standing close to the center of the hall and finally taking in the building’s acoustics in a meaningful way. Thank you for everything you do.”

— Michael Preston, commuter at Moynihan Train Hall

SING FOR HOPE EDUCATION

Dynamic arts classes, workshops, and standards-based curricula that inspire civic action and uplift youth, educators, and local communities.

Sing for Hope’s Education Program is at once global and hyperlocal, bringing daily arts education to under-resourced youth in the Greater New York City area while also reaching youth worldwide with our Sustainable Development Goals Arts Curriculum, our Creative Hope for Refugees program, our Careers in the Arts and Artivism series, and our SFH International Pilot Programs. Sing for Hope Education serves children and youth (defined by The United Nations as people under 18, and between the ages of 15-24, respectively) with partners including NYC Department of Education, Los Angeles Unified School District, Broadway for Arts Education, and The United Nations.

Sing for Hope’s education programs foster positive outcomes in our students’ academic and social-emotional learning in the near-term as well as the long-term.

SUCCESS FOR OUR STUDENTS TODAY...

“Sing for Hope is my second home. It has made me into who I am today and helped me go from being an angry young person to a responsible young man.”

— Jordan, age 15 (from the Bronx), SFH Lab student

... TRANSLATES TO SUCCESS FOR OUR STUDENTS’ FUTURES...

“I learned excellence at Sing for Hope and I am very grateful I did! My first week here at Dartmouth is going really well. As part of the ‘first generation / low income’ student group, I am here on campus early to get used to it. I am having such a good time, and guess what? I’ve been singing for fun and telling everyone about all of the things I got to do at Sing for Hope this summer, and they can’t believe it! Thank you again for everything you’ve done for me, and I’m so glad my little sister is now in the program.”

— Nasih Lee, freshman attending Dartmouth on full scholarship and the first person in her family to attend college, Sing for Hope Lab alumna and Bronx resident who attended our program for five years

HANDAHARMONY AT THE UNITED NATIONS

“The creative arts, especially as practiced and developed by our young people, act as a vital tool in our progress toward the Sustainable Development Goals. The inclusion of our students’ voices—literally and metaphorically—in convenings on our shared global future is powerfully affirming for them. It is also symbolic for their families and entire communities, which have been among the hardest hit in the US by the COVID-19 pandemic. Our youth ‘Dream Big, Speak Loud’ with us through their artistry, and we take renewed inspiration and strength for our path ahead in this Decade of Action.”

— Dr. Muhammad Yunus, 2006 Nobel Peace Laureate and Sing for Hope founding board member

Sing for Hope’s HandaHarmony Global Youth initiative leverages the power of youth creativity and the arts as drivers of the Sustainable Development Goals.

For the fourth consecutive year, as part of our partnership with The International Foundation for Arts and Culture (Dr. Haruhisa Handa, Chair, Sing for Hope Global Patron) and UNICEF, our HandaHarmony students shared performance and conversation with world leaders at The United Nations, including the first-ever youth arts performance for delegates and member states as part of the High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development in The United Nations General Assembly Hall.

This year’s event also featured the placement in the UN General Assembly Hall of the first-ever SDG-themed Sing for Hope Piano, made possible by a permanent gift from The Kingdom of The Netherlands to the United Nations. The colorful Sing for Hope Piano was created by Artist Partners Chris Soria and Danielle McDonald and lives permanently in the SDG Studio at the United Nations for ongoing activations. SFH Youth Chorus was also highlighted as part of the Official UN Commemoration of the International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women, held in the ECOSOC Chamber of UN Headquarters.

EDUCATION

SING FOR HOPE YOUTH CHORUS

Powered by an esteemed consortium of NYC-area arts educators led by acclaimed choral educator Dr. Darryl Jordan and SFH Education Director Sharyn Pirtle, The Sing for Hope Youth Chorus is made up of brilliant young singers from across the New York Metropolitan area. The ensemble is 100 members strong and features an innovative multi-age mentorship model made up of youth ages 8 to 18.

Sing for Hope Youth Chorus members are chosen from SFH’s partner schools across New York, including PS 191, Fiorello H. LaGuardia High School of Music & Art and Performing Arts, Amani Public Charter School, and many more. Rehearsals center on healthy vocalism, musical skill-building, and creative service learning. In FY22, the SFH Youth Chorus reached thousands of audience members in venues including The United Nations General Assembly Hall, Westfield World Trade Center, Little Island, Times Square, Fosun Plaza at 28 Liberty, Moynihan Train Hall, and Lincoln Center.

SING FOR HOPE LAB

Sing for Hope Lab serves middle and high school students in The Bronx and Southern Westchester County in an area that was among the hardest hit in the U.S. by COVID-19. Daily in-school and after-school classes include Music Theory, Keyboard, African Drumming, Rising Star Musical Theater, voice, acting, and dance modules. SFH Lab serves 400 Title I students daily, and acts as a research incubator and co-creation space for our SDG Arts curriculum, SFH Youth Chorus, and more. In FY21, 95% of enrolled students learned to read music.

Among the SFH Lab’s special projects in FY22 was our arts-in-vaccine-confidence touring musical, Don’t Throw Away Your Shot. The award-winning musical empowers students to be future vaccine decision-makers by encouraging them to ask questions, have open conversations with trusted mentors, and build confidence in the vaccination process. It was made possible by one of only 30 grants awarded nationwide from the CDC Foundation, and developed in partnership with students, teachers, administrators, PTAs, and community health officials.

Sing for Hope also forged a new partnership with PS37, teaching 400 kids on the autism spectrum in both in-person and online classes. Sing for Hope partnered with Broadway for Arts Education in FY21-22 to bring dance instruction to 225 students at The Urban Assembly Institute of Math and Science for Young Women, along with an innovative podcasting workshop where 25 students learned the basics of sound engineering, podcasting, and music production.
SING FOR HOPE EDUCATION

CAREERS IN THE ARTS

Launched during the pandemic in response to the reported isolation and disengagement experienced by high school students, Sing for Hope’s Careers in the Arts series is an online resource that brings students directly into conversation with arts leaders via Zoom. Focusing on a variety of creative industry paths, Careers in the Arts guests have included mezzo-soprano/producer/composer Alicia Hall Moran, Hadestown star Kimberly Marable, stage manager Glynn David Turner, the production team behind The Drew Barrymore Show, and other leading creative practitioners. The program has reached over 2,000 students (the majority of them Title I and/or from under-resourced schools) and has employed artists across a broad range of creative disciplines including music, theater, television production, visual art, stage management, and lighting design.

Sing for Hope’s Paul Foundation Young Artist Resource Lab: Careers in the Arts Series is made possible by a generous multi-year grant from The Beatrice and Reymont Paul Foundation.

ARTIVISM

Designed to foster dialogue and encourage positive social change through the arts, Artivism: The Power of Art for Social Transformation is an interdisciplinary, multi-institutional collaboration between Adelphi University, The Gottesman Libraries of Teachers College | Columbia University, and Sing for Hope. With weekly multi-modal events offered free of charge and open to all, Artivism presents diverse artists, activists, academics, and creative practitioners from around the world in conversations, workshops, and performances that center on how the arts transform lives and environments hyperlocally, citywide, nationally, and globally.

Sing for Hope’s ARTIVISM weekly sessions and annual awards provide a network of support for creative practitioners like Cynthia Tobar, whose day-long community arts event explored different perspectives on inclusion, diversity, and bias in defining Great Americans at the historic Hall of Fame on Bronx Community College campus.

Sing for Hope’s youth-focused Creative Hope for Refugees programming in Europe is informed by our program launched in 2018 at Skaramagas Camp in Athens, Greece, in partnership with El Sistema Greece, and funded by a six-figure grant from an anonymous Europe-based foundation. The program is grounded in the belief, championed by the International Rescue Committee, that refugee children are aided in their readjustment and recovery process through access to creative arts and opportunities for expressive play.

Residing at the intersection of Sing for Hope Education, Sing for Hope Public Health & Wellbeing, and Sing for Hope Pianos, our Creative Hope for Refugees program was expanded in March 2022 in response to the war in Ukraine. Expertly guided by our Europe-based SFH Project Leaders Peter Herr and Victoria Donu, the program currently serves five European cities (Nuremberg, Prague, Bucharest, Chișinău, and Turin) with co-created Sing for Hope Pianos, workshops, and collaborative performances that welcome, engage, and comfort newly arrived Ukrainian refugee youth and families. The program provides a safe space, literally and metaphorically, to nurture refugee children’s social-emotional development and thereby address a central aspect of migration integration, a key crisis of our era.

As we have seen from our ongoing work with youth in under-resourced communities in New York City, the arts foster hope, empathy, self-determination, resilience, and a renewed sense of possibility for our lives. SFH’s Creative Hope for Refugees program offers a scalable creative intervention that meets young people where they are and leverages the power of the arts for peace-building, trauma recovery, and, per our motto, envisioning and then creating a better world.

In addition to our European-based programming (serving 223 refugee youth ages 4 - 17), Sing for Hope was also proud to host a Ukrainian children’s theater troupe (who had been performing plays in a bomb shelter in Lviv) at our Sing for Hope Camp in Ivoryton, CT last summer. The Ukrainian youth were welcomed by our SFH students from across the five boroughs of NYC and the tristate area. Under the expert guidance of our SFH Teaching Artist staff, they enjoyed learning, dancing, singing, and most importantly, just being kids together.

Over the course of FY22, our European SFH Project Leaders Victoria Donu and Peter Herr have expanded the program to a total of five cities (Nuremberg, Prague, Bucharest, Chișinău, and Turin), with three additional cities planned next year.
SING FOR HOPE EDUCATION

HAITI, INDIA, & ECUADOR PILOT PROGRAMS

FY22 saw the launch of three new Sing for Hope international pilot programs in partnership with Broadway for Arts Education (BAE) serving youth in India, Haiti, and Ecuador.

SHANTI BHAVAN, TAMIL NADU, INDIA

Shanti Bhavan, a residential school in Baliganapalli, Tamil Nadu, India, shown in the Netflix documentary series Daughters of Destiny, empowers children from the lowest castes to bring positive change to their families and communities. Led by professional teaching artists, our programming reaches 300+ students with private music lessons in piano, voice, and guitar; three choirs for middle and high school students; and general music classes for Kindergarten through Fifth Grade.

WINGS OF HOPE, LEKOL SEN TRINITE, AND SAINT JOSEPH’S COMMUNITY OUTREACH CENTER IN PORT-AU-PRINCE AND JACMEL, HAITI

Our programs in Haiti serve children and adults with disabilities and economically disadvantaged children in Port-au-Prince and Jacmel, Haiti. In partnership with the St. Joseph’s family and BAE, Sing for Hope provides support and guidance for teaching artists from the local community, along with classroom materials including musical instruments and art supplies.
SING FOR HOPE PIANOS

A YEAR-ROUND CONTINUUM OF CREATIVE COMMUNITY

Sing for Hope accepts piano artist proposals from around the globe.

Renowned and emerging artists, celebrities, school groups, and community members bring their diverse visions to life.

The Sing for Hope Pianos are placed in their “forever homes” in schools, hospitals, and communities where SFH provides year-round programming.

The Sing for Hope Pianos hit the parks and public spaces for anyone and everyone to enjoy. With over 600 unique SFH Pianos placed to date, we’ve made NYC host to more public pianos than any other city in the world.
SING FOR HOPE PIANOS

From the Bronx to Beirut, Sing for Hope Pianos is a global arts initiative that creates artist-designed pianos; places them in public spaces for anyone and everyone to enjoy; then transports and activates them year-round in permanent homes in schools, hospitals, transit hubs, refugee camps, and community-based organizations. Sing for Hope has provided more pianos for under-resourced public schools than any other organization in the world.

Students at Farm of Hope International School in Senya Beraku, Ghana, and SFH Project Leader Peter Herr proudly share their newly created Sing for Hope Piano, which reflects the vibrant spirit of their school.

Each week, in New York City and Los Angeles alone, 80,000 students benefit from Sing for Hope Pianos. 567 unique school music programs are currently benefiting from Sing for Hope Pianos, including 92 new school arts programs started in FY2022 as a direct result of Sing for Hope Pianos.

A vital piece of recovery infrastructure for communities that bridge the gap between quarantine isolation and a fully recovered arts industry, Sing for

Hope Pianos were created in FY2021-22 in partnership with The City of New York, The City of Beverly Hills, Los Angeles Unified School District, The City of New Orleans, and The United Nations, and in the European cities of Nuremberg, Fürth, Prague, Chișinău, Bucharest, and Turin.

NEW YORK CITY

“The Sing for Hope Pianos are the flowers of New York City. To create art on the piano, and then just give it to everyone, that is an amazing way to process the trauma that we’ve been living through over these past many months... If painting a piano and leaving it on the streets isn’t addressing our hearts—our love and our pain and our need to connect—then I don’t know what is.”

— Daphne Rubin-Vega, In the Heights film star, Broadway icon, and 2021 Sing for Hope Art for All Awardee

As the “hardware” for the “software” of our year-round programming, the FY22 Sing for Hope Pianos have continued without interruption during the pandemic, with rigorous health protocols provided by Mount Sinai Health System. Entering the twelfth year of the program, Sing for Hope Pianos were brought to the public in partnership with Little Island, Westfield World Trade Center, Port Authority Bus Terminal, the NYC Department of Transportation, and The United Nations.

RIGHT: MTA subway conductor and jazz virtuoso Denaul Jenkins pauses for a pic, sharing his take on the moment: “New York City needs these Sing for Hope Pianos because music is the greatest language we have to communicate.”

BEVERLY HILLS & GREATER LOS ANGELES AREA

Twenty-one Sing for Hope Pianos were presented on the West Coast with cornerstone support provided by The City of Beverly Hills, The Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts, and Joshgiving, a philanthropic initiative of Josh Cellars in partnership with Josh Groban. SFH Pianos’ summertime locations included the open-air spaces and parks of Beverly Hills, with permanent year-round homes including 18 under-resourced schools across Los Angeles Unified School District, the West Los Angeles VA Medical Center, and Wallis Annenberg GenSpace for Healthy Aging.

SING FOR HOPE PIANOS

NEW ORLEANS

“Our beloved local music venues, businesses, and community spaces reopened when COVID restrictions were lifted—but then Hurricane Ida struck, directly impacting our city-funded music and arts programs. Sing for Hope Pianos New Orleans grew in response to this and we’ve seen our community come together with resilience and creativity.”

— Adam Lozoya, SFH Pianos Project Leader for New Orleans

Beginning in early March 2022, Sing for Hope Pianos were co-created with refugee youth and families as part of our Creative Hope for Refugees program serving five European cities: Nuremberg, Prague, Bucharest, Chișinău, and Turin. This international program is built upon the success of our work in and around Skaramagas Refugee Camp (launched in 2018 in partnership with El Sistema Greece), Lebanon (launched in 2019 in partnership with the American University of Beirut Medical Center), Germany (launched in 2019 in partnership with the Global Social Business Summit), and the U.K. (launched in 2013 in partnership with Oxford University and London’s West Elephant Arts Centre).

Eight Sing for Hope Pianos were presented for the first time in New Orleans under the careful guidance of local Sing for Hope Project Leaders Kallie Padgett and Adam Lozoya. Iconic locations and community partners included the Jazz Museum, City Park, the Green Project, New Orleans Healing Center, Happyland Theatre, Scale Workspace, Antenna Works, and the Creole Connection. Artist Partners included Preacher, Luna Fox, Trinity Thomas, Jai Love, Noah Church, Michaela Angelena, Kallie Padget, and Tracy O’Donnell.

In FY2021 - FY2022, new Sing for Hope Pianos were created through our programming partnerships in New York City and the TriState Area (NYC Department of Transportation, Moynihan Train Hall, Oculus World Trade Center, Newark Liberty International Airport, Port Authority, Hudson Yards, Little Island, Westfield), Beverly Hills and Los Angeles (Los Angeles Unified School District, The Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts, the West Los Angeles VA Medical Center, Wallis Annenberg GenSpace for Healthy Aging), The United Nations, and our Creative Hope for Ukrainian Refugees program serving the European cities of Nuremberg, Prague, Bucharest, Chișinău, and Turin.

SING FOR HOPE CULTURAL DIPLOMACY

Creative advocacy, leadership, and program design that drive the integration of the arts in policy, peace-building, and at global convenings on social change. Sing for Hope is the official Cultural Partner of the World Summit of Nobel Peace Laureates.

ADVOCACY & THOUGHT-LEADERSHIP

In FY22, Sing for Hope’s creative advocacy, leadership, and program design continued to drive the integration of the arts in policy and at global convenings on social change. In addition to continuing our role as the official culture partner of the world summit of Nobel peace laureate, Sing for Hope was honored to contribute and keynote at summits and institutions including Global Social Business Summit, Den Andra Operan Stockholm, The Juilliard School, Carnegie Mellon University, Music Academy of the West, Adelphi University, Nord Anglia Global Campus, Creative Mornings, and Tecnológico de Monterrey.

AFTA LEGISLATIVE PLANNING COMMITTEES

With historic legislation for the arts sector under consideration, Sing for Hope was proud to serve alongside arts advocates from across the nation for the Arts’ Legislative Planning Committee, advocating for the interests of the arts sector in key legislative conversations.

SINGFORHOPEGRAMS/MOMENTS/CATALOG

Our SingforHopeGrams, SingforHopeMoments, and Holiday Gift Catalog bring moments of creative connection directly to people’s lives, while providing employment for artists from Broadway, opera, and more as the world’s stages continue to recover from the COVID-19 pandemic. One hundred percent of proceeds from sales of these products go to help working artists and the communities Sing for Hope serves.

The program has brought enlivening team-building moments and opportunities for musical connection to companies all over the world, including Pfizer, Harvard Business School, and Goldman Sachs, as well as to families, friends, and lone individuals ranging in age from 10 to 102.

VOCALEASE MASK

Sing for Hope is proud to be the exclusive charitable partner of the VocalEase Mask, designed during the pandemic in response to the particular needs of singers, actors, and teachers, and offering superior aerosol protection with maximized clarity of projection. Thanks to the generosity of founder Professor Stephanie Tennill, a portion of proceeds from the purchase of each acoustically transparent protective mask goes directly to Sing for Hope.
Sing for Hope increasingly receives invaluable support from major organizations in NYC, nationally, and globally. In FY2021 and FY2022, we were honored to receive crucial new support from foundations of all sizes, ranging from family foundations to corporate giving arms to statewide and national arts agencies. Notable support included grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, the New York State Council on the Arts, the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, and the Fan Fox and Leslie R. Samuels Foundation.

In FY2021 and FY2022, in response to our powerfully effective programs that provided employment for artists, Sing for Hope received more first-time donations than in any previous year of our 15-year history. We are deeply grateful to all of our donors.
